

Let There Be Light

These fall days in Nebraska see darkness closing in earlier to blot out the countryside. We were riding through a rural area in southeastern Nebraska a few years ago when the lights in farm homes came on. It is a cheerful sight. It spells companionship, a well-rooted society.

Slightly more than a fortnight ago, a rather depressingly drab page of printed figures landed on the editor's desk. Actually it told the story of a great Nebraska achievement rather graphically. Through its tables of figures, we discovered that 83,309 farm homes in this state now have the blessings of electricity, 78,000 of them supplied by the power lines of Nebraska's public power system. Those figures mean that the job of bringing electricity to the door of the farm home, be it the small family sized farm or the ranch embodying hundreds or thousands of acres, is about 80 per cent complete.

But that was not all. The same compilations revealed that there are 71,000 electric washers in Nebraska farm homes. The old order which condemned the farm wife to hours of laborious scrubbing on the washboard is nearing an end, and in these 71,000 Nebraska farm homes is a thing of the past. That is a step towards emancipation for women from the drudgery, intensified in the heat of summer and the bitter cold of winter, that contributes infinitely to the fullness or richness of farm life today. There are 11,000 home freezers, and 20,000 water heaters. No ritual there of filling the kettles with water and heating it for the bath. And there was another item indicative of these years of progress in Nebraska.

One of the delights of boyhood on a Nebraska farm was the stern chore of grabbing hold of the icy handle of a pump when the first step outdoors frosted the breath. A few minutes of energetic pumping may have slackened the thirst of the livestock but it also left an unforgettable memory inspired by holding a piece of iron in mittened fingers while the cows took their time in drinking. There are 38,000 farms in Nebraska which now have electric pumps, which now require only turning on the current and letting electricity do the job.

The greater portion of this has transpired in the last ten years—has taken place while America was fighting a great global war—has been pushing steadily forward during these post-war years of conflict between two great ideologies. There are very few states in the union where the same attention has been showered upon the farm home. In the matter of modern improvements, the Nebraska farm home will not take any dust from older, more settled sister commonwealths. And in the American midlands today, it stands as a model for others.

Neither 'Anti' Nor 'Pro'

The people of the United States have paid plenty for blind partisanship. Very few of present-day issues of an international flavor readily lend themselves to partisan alignment. And with the accent upon rearmament to insure national security, the problems of national defense hardly fall within the sphere of traditional, or orthodox, party action.

A newsman was playing Mayor Carl F. Olson with questions. Mr. Olson is the democratic candidate for congress in the Third Nebraska district to fill the vacancy created by the death of the veteran republican representative, Karl Stefan. Earlier Mr. Olson had rejected the label of "pro-administration," or "anti-administration." His attitude should constitute a strong recommendation that here is a man who has his feet on the ground, his eyes and his thought upon developments both abroad and here at home. It is simply impossible today to take a rigid partisan stand upon many of the questions that come up for decision in Washington. Among the Nebraska delegation in recent years, Karl Stefan, and only Karl Stefan, asserted a very considerable spirit of independence. Usually the others—Nebraska's two senators and the three republicans occupying house seats—followed the party line to the end of the road, frequently it seemed when that end was a blind alley.

Mr. Stefan exercised a measure of independence. In his committee assignments, and his long term of service had placed him upon the choicest committees through the seniority rule, he was a frequent defender of the state department, a discriminating critic both by his votes and his utterances upon the floor.

Until recent years Nebraska representation in congress was strengthened by the fact that generally the country over, its spokesmen left an indecipherable impression of independence in action. They were more than party hacks, answering to roll calls after the party whip had passed along the whispered word of the decision reached in cloakroom caucus. They had convictions of their own.

We can use a little bit of that in American life today. Nothing will be acceptably settled by an uncompromising party line-up upon the question of how much or how little shall be spent for weapons in the immediate years ahead. The one urgent thing that congress must do is to re-examine—not with partisan eye but with critical gaze—the many billions to be spent for arms. The question of how much the lump sum should be is not particularly a decision for republicans alone, or for democrats solely. It is a question for all of the American people and the greater freedom that it can have from bitter partisanship, the more likely a sound, sensible answer will be forthcoming.

Elsewhere on this page today is a picture of Mr. Olson, his wife and his two children, taken in the living room of their home in Fremont. Accompanying it is brief profile of the Olson family. A similar picture of the republican candidate will appear the following day. Both parties have nominated men not previously long identified with partisan politics in a statewide sense. In each instance they represent a type of citizenship of which this state has been proud.

The time for discussion prior to the balloting in the special election is short. This is to commend Mr. Olson for the stand that he has taken in asserting that if successful, he will be guided in his voting by an independent spirit.

No Rich And No Poor

A national magazine in a rather pretentious presentation of the American story recalls that Thomas Jefferson looking into the future saw this country anchored upon the land, with every family possessing a small piece of ground, no rich and no poor.

If Jefferson were to return today, his first sign of life probably would be to rub his eyes. Undoubtedly the great King ranch in Texas would fascinate him. A glimpse of an impressive row of combines harvesting wheat in some of these big operations in western Nebraska would occupy his full attention until late in the night. Just how completely Jefferson believed in his vision was revealed in his second inaugural address when, called upon to defend sharply his folly, the Louisiana Purchase, of which Nebraska is a part, he said:

Unforgotten Declaration

While the case against Sen. Joe McCarthy continues in the senate, it is time to call attention again to the "Declaration of Conscience" by seven republican senators who condemned the technique and practices which have come to be known as "McCarthyism." The declaration, signed on June 1, 1951, was composed by Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, and contains her name and that of Senator Hendrickson of New Jersey. Both of them are members of the rules committee looking into the question of Senator McCarthy's fitness to serve in the United States senate.

The declaration contains only 224 words, but is nevertheless one of the outstanding documents in many years, answering as it does one of the major political and moral questions of our times. It opens with a condemnation of the democratic administration for starting the "growing confusion" which afflicts the United States, and then adds:

"Certain elements of the republican party have materially added to this confusion in the hopes of riding the party to victory through the selfish political exploitation of fear, bigotry, ignorance and intolerance."

In presenting the declaration to the senate, Senator Smith told the senate:

"Those of us who shout the loudest about 'Americanism' in making character assassinations are too frequently those who, by their own words and acts, ignore some of the basic principles of Americanism: The right to criticize, the right to hold unpopular beliefs . . . I do not want to see the republican party ride to political victory on the Four Horsemen of Calumny—fear, ignorance, bigotry and smear."

These words, expressing the conscience of seven republicans, should be examined, studied and remembered by all Americans, regardless of their political inclinations.

The city of Niagara Falls, known more for its water than anything else, was handed a check for $7,883,658 the other day to improve the city's water plant. Turns out there's a shortage of water (drinking) which is in no way connected with the abundance of water (scenic).

Washington Merry-Go-Round Eisenhower Boosters Disagree On Strategy

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Two of Eisenhower's staunchest republican boosters have just had a significant heart-to-heart talk.

Both are Pennsylvanians, but neither has been mutually cooperative in the promotion of Ike for president. The other day, however, Congressman Hugh Scott, Jr., of Philadelphia, who devotes all his spare time to beating the bushes for Eisenhower, walked across the capitol plaza to see Sen. Jim Duff, ex-governor of Pennsylvania, and nominal leader of the Eisenhower forces.

"I think we're hurting our own cause pushing the general and demanding he tell us he is a republican and a candidate," Scott laid his cards on the table. "I am sure in my own mind he is. But we've got to prove to him that the republican party is the best party for him, and that there is a genuine demand for him in the party."

Senator Duff, who has seen a lot of the inner workings of the republican party, did not entirely agree. He maintained that if the general waited too long, Senator Taft would sew up the delegates.

"But the Taft people have way overestimated their strength, I'd say by 250 delegates," Scott argued. "I've been to most of the regional republican gatherings, and Taft just does not have the grass roots strength. Eisenhower does."

The congressman then told of Ike's answer to his impassioned plea in Paris that Eisenhower is needed to inspire the American people and the world. The general was obviously impressed with Scott's spirit and said, "If you believe in something hard enough, go out and fight for it. That's the only way to get results."

The Philadelphia congressman said he interpreted this to mean that Eisenhower was giving his okay for a campaign on his behalf. Then, if there was a real response from the republican party, he would co-operate.

—PEACE OR WAR—

Shortly after President Truman's peace proposals tonight, Gen. Omar Bradley, the top chief of staff, will make a significant speech advising the nation on how to stay strong enough to insure peace.

In the speech, General Bradley, who made his fame as a foot soldier, will go all-out for air power. With Admiral Fechteler, the new chief of naval operations, reviving the old navy-air force rivalry in a United States News interview, not cleared by his boss, Secretary Lovett, the Bradley speech is sure to make headlines.

For the officer who once commanded the army's Fort Benning infantry school and has spent his life with ground forces plans to warn that the United States must win the air war before it can win a ground and sea war.

Bradley will say that the airplane is still the primary means of delivering the A-bomb both against cities and enemy troops; will reveal that baby A-bombs carried by fighter planes are more effective than atomic artillery; that large atomic bombs carried by B-36's are more effective than guided missiles; and will point out that air power must be planned and purchased several years in advance.

Accordingly, the chief of staff will favor a 143-group air force. Bradley, who is one of the most idealistic men in the armed forces, regrettably plans to warn the nation that real peace with Russia isn't likely.

GOP Working Hard To Win Southwest

By MARQUIS CHILDS

TUCSON, Ariz.—The drive to capture as many of the traditionally democratic states of the south and the southwest for the republican party has already begun. In fact, it has been under way for some time, partly on a frankly political basis but more subtly under the guise of a nonpolitical appeal. Speakers sponsored by one organization or another are carrying the communist issue to cities and small towns in the south and especially in Texas where the 23 electoral votes are a glittering prize. Under the guise of patriotism, they advocate driving the communists out of Washington, insinuating that just about everybody there today is a communist.

As the speaker gets wound up, communism becomes synonymous with "foreign ideology" and anything that the professional patriots disapprove of. In effect, this tends to become just plain anti-foreign; a kind of American first line that, by implication at least, is strongly isolationist. And the alluring appeal is held out that only the south can save the nation from doom.

These speakers prefer to appear before service clubs, which customarily prohibit any discussion of politics. Since they volunteer their services for free, they get a number of opportunities.

One such speaker who has made a number of Texas towns recently is Dr. R. C. McDonald. McDonald tells his audiences that he is part of an organization known as national republic, a fact-finding group gathering data on subversive activities. He claims national republic started the house un-American activities committee on its way by providing the committee with files covering subversives from 1918 to 1938.

"In 1932 if the American people put that motley crew back in Washington for four years," he tells service club audiences, "I don't believe we're ever going to stop them."

Then he stresses the role the south can play in swinging the election in '52 against the democratic administration. Inviting his listeners to consider what the New Deal and the Fair Deal did for Texas last year, he cites Supreme court decisions upholding the right of the federal government to Tidelands oil and ruling against Negro segregation in certain instances.

In some cases protests have come to the boards of local Rotary and Kiwanis clubs for inviting a political speaker. But the immediate response is often one of fervent enthusiasm.

Nebraskans: In The Workshop And At Home

By JOHN SWANSON

No. 99
Of A Series

MR. AND MRS. CARL F. OLSON . . . the Third district "draftee" was surprised.

CARL F. Olson, 40-year-old Fremont mayor and choice of Third district democrats for the seat of the late Congressman Karl Stefan, is a man of quiet life and quiet habits.

The "draftee" candidate, still a little surprised by the swift events which moved him into the candidacy, took time off from a busy schedule of city and personal business to tell Star readers a little about himself and his family.

With his wife, Eunice, daughter, Janice and son, David, Mayor Olson lives in a frame house on East Military avenue in Fremont. Since moving to Fremont in 1942, he has worked as sales manager of a seed company and later operated an automobile business. In 1949 he became development director of Midland college.

That same year Olson was elected mayor of the city for the first time, and was re-elected early this year. A member of the Salem Lutheran church, he is vice-chairman of the church council, and is serving his fourth year on the executive committee of the Nebraska synod of the United Lutheran church.

The busy mayor has little time for hobbies, but he adds: "My spare time—of which I have little—is spent in reading."

BORN on a farm near Hooper, Olson attended school at Craig. For 27 years he lived on a farm, and he has some definite ideas on farm legislation.

Observing proudly that his native Third district is one of the world's leading beef centers, Olson expressed firm belief that any federal farm program must encourage continued high production and avoid "fluctuations" in supply.

IN regard to foreign policy, he expressed approval of the Marshall plan and related foreign aid projects.

"We must help other peoples to get on their feet," he declared, "with the world growing smaller today, we must be constantly concerned with the welfare of other nations."

Olson reaffirms that he did not campaign for the nomination, but accepted only the will of the delegates.

Mrs. Olson, who operates a small bake shop owned by her husband, says the nomination took her so much by surprise she hasn't had a chance to think about the possibilities of being a congressman's wife.

A Dog's Life

Lincoln, Neb.
To the editor of The Lincoln Star: I daresay every dog-lover in Lincoln and Lancaster county and wherever The Star circulates will agree with me when I say the feature which you publish regularly from week to week under the title of "Man's Best Friend" is a fine one. I daresay further that it claims a lot of reader interest. Nevertheless I've been tempted to submit a counter-feature entitled "Man's Worst Enemy," in the course of which I would show a dog with rabies biting a little child; another showing a dog on a porch frightening a letter carrier to such an extent that the dog's owner suffered delay in the delivery of a most important letter; another of a neighbor's black pup tearing to shreds one's Star left safely at the door by your careful carrier; another of this same black puppy making the days hideous with his unabated protest at having his liberty curtailed by being chained to his kennel in the back yard, or of another big brown fellow with a deep voice of the bound species who sets up a continuous and dismal howling every time all these next-door neighbors leave the premises, and thus helps to take the joy out of life for all within the block; another showing dogs scratching up the flowers in one's lawn or garden.

And I might even include a picture of our own dog—a handsome spitz (whose papers, I might add, cover everything in the house, including every garment my wife and I possess)—whose vicious acts frighten many strangers, though we consider him harmless, and whose sharp bark is ear-splitting. Though we have this spitz, I am convinced town is no suitable place for dogs. The dog is "man's best friend" out on a farm, where he has the environment that permits him to live a dog's life.

$64-Plus Questions

Anselmo, Neb.
To the editor of The Lincoln Star: I read in the papers that something has gone wrong, that while people are receiving as high income and wages as ever, they are not buying so much, which makes business bad. Now big drives must be started to get people to loosen up and spend more money. Sometimes I wonder if anyone really understands money. When is it really wasted, and what becomes of all the money that is wasted? What would happen if everyone saved his money? Would we then have any really rich men?

It is maintained that people should spend their money for necessities and not for luxuries. Some people claim there is enough spent for luxuries to pay all our public debt, but do they include tobacco, liquor, entertainment, chewing gum, gambling, cosmetics, advertising, politics, and what-have-you? Some say we waste our money if we throw out our old furniture and buy new, but what would become of all the people that produce our luxuries if we didn't buy them? And what kind of people are they who tell us to save our money?

Corn Harvesting Moves Into Full Swing

Moisture Content Said High

Nebraska farmers braved unseasonably cold weather last week to get the 1951 corn harvest into full swing, the weekly crop-weather report stated.

Nearly all sections report that the picking is in progress, or—as in Adams and Kearney counties—almost finished. Some corn is being cribbed but there is a possibility of damage due to excessive moisture still present in many ears.

Because of the moisture content, most of the picked corn was being fed immediately or piled in small lots in the open. Through the south central counties, however, corn with a moisture content of less than 26 per cent is going into three-ring cribs. Some farmers report yields up to 90 bushels to the acre before shrinkage.

Yields Disappointing
Generally, however, the corn is soft and of poor quality, and yields are disappointing. Considerable interest is being shown in forced air and mechanical type drying systems this year as a result of the moisture.

The winter wheat picture continued to look good, with reports from some areas indicating that the planting has made good development and should enter the winter in fine condition.

The soybean harvest in the eastern area is nearly completed, with fair yields. In the west, the sugar beet and dry edible bean harvest were halted by the week's low temperatures. Feed grains continue to be ample in most counties.

Range cattle are being moved to winter quarters in good condition. Reports continue to indicate increased interest in feeder cattle in order to utilize soft and immature corn. Yet feeders are reluctant to pay the prevailing high prices for feeder stock.

In an unusually cold series of days, the lowest temperatures reached the sub-zero stage in the panhandle. For several days, the temperature remained below freezing all day. The only precipitation was light, local snows.

Buffett Will Back Butler, 'If He Files'

OMAHA—(AP)—Rep. Howard Buffett of Omaha, after a visit with Senator Hugh Butler at Cambridge, Neb., Tuesday promised vigorous support to Butler if he files for re-election.

Buffett said Butler reaffirmed his earlier statements that he intends to seek re-election. But if the senator does not file, Buffett said, "it is possible that I will explore the situation further" with a view to entering the senatorial race.

"I believe the people of Nebraska are entitled to an honest choice in the 1952 elections," Buffett said in a statement. "It would be most unfortunate if the race were run between two or more 'me-too' republicans, with only personalities and personal ambitions as the issue."

So far, the only filing for the senatorial post has been by Gov. Val Peterson.

Griswold Also Eyed
There has been speculation that Butler, 73, might decide not to make the race but this Butler has repeatedly denied. There has been speculation also that former Gov. Dwight Griswold of Scottsbluff and Congressman Buffett, with perhaps others, might get into the republican race should Butler retire.

Buffett was flown to Cambridge by Rancher Chris Abbott of Alliance.

Meanwhile, Senator Butler's advice to any who wonder if he's "in shape" to face another political campaign is to "come down to Cambridge and see me hunting pheasants and looking after the stock" on his brother's farm.

This was Butler's answer to a direct question as he participated in a panel discussion with other state republican leaders, staged at a Dawson county young republican rally in Lexington.

Butler was asked if he planned to withdraw from the U.S. senate race. He answered "no" and pointed to his present activities as evidence of his good physical condition.

Butler also told the young republicans that when the "new deal" is voted out it will be possible to modify controls. He said that if the president had been given all the controls he asked for the nation would be farther down the road to socialism than Britain.

UNACCUSTOMED As I Am—

While running through the futures file (that's the I-try-this-some-day file) I came across this recipe for Irish soda bread—there's no reason to save it for Paddy's day, it's good in November. Here's how—

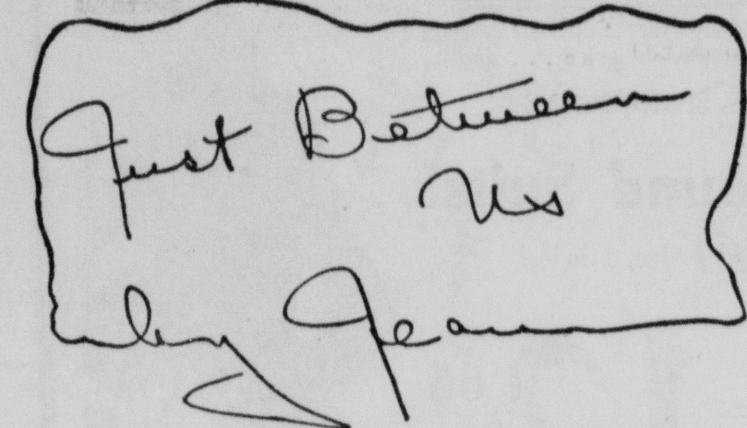

Measure four cups of sifted flour into the flour sifter (sounds like we're running in circles) add one-quarter cup of granulated sugar, one teaspoon of salt and one teaspoon of baking powder, and stir into a large bowl. Then stir in two tablespoons of caraway seeds. And then cut in one-quarter cup of butter or margarine, until the mixture is the consistency of coarse corn meal. (No doubt it's extremely unorthodox, but I use one beater of the electric mixer, at low speed, to do this job—if you're a perfectionist, cut it in by hand.) When you've recovered, add two cups of seedless raisins.

To continue—combine an egg, one and one-half cups of buttermilk and one teaspoon of baking soda, and stir into the flour mixture until it's just moistened. Turn the dough onto a floured board or pastry cloth and knead lightly (don't let it intimidate you!) until the dough is smooth. Shape the dough into a ball and place it in a greased casserole, large enough to allow for expansion. With a sharp knife, make a cross on the top—this is to keep away the leprechauns, who would otherwise ruin the baking. Brush the top with a dab of cream, or with a slightly-beaten egg yolk, to produce a glaze. Bake at 375 degrees an hour and a quarter, or until a cake tester comes out clean. And let it cool a bit before cutting. This does make quite a large loaf—if there's any left over, it's awfully good buttered and toasted under the broiler for breakfast. Or maybe you could give it back to the leprechauns.

—reading NOT recommended for those with squeamish tendencies—I clipped this from the "Ladies Home Journal" and pass it on with some degree of trepidation hoping you read it AFTER breakfast: "Scarcely a day passes that we do not eat some six-legged creature in one form or another," says Dr. C. H. Curran in "Insects in Your Life." Dr. Curran is Curator of Insects and Spiders at the American Museum of Natural History, but it might nevertheless be trying to have him as a dinner guest. The "Journal" suggests: "Likely as not he'd pick up a piece of lettuce from the salad and joint out two or three plant lice. Or spinach with some choice fly larvae. Or rice with rice-weevil eggs. Or tomato relish garnished with corn-ear worm."

Returns Home Today

Leaving today to return to Rochester, Minn., will be Mrs. Emmerson Ward who, with her small son, Robert Talbot Ward, has been a guest at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Talbot.

En Route To San Diego

Leaving on Tuesday evening for the west coast were Mrs. Jack Trombla, her daughter, Jennifer Lynn, and her son, Danny, who have gone to San Diego where they will join Lieut. (jg) Trombla, for a six months stay. Lieutenant Trombla, incidentally, recently was assigned to destroyer duty.

Our Page Wasn't Sanforized

SOMEHOW OR OTHER the page kept shrinking as the night wore on—until dawn found us down in this little cubby hole—But we're happy—and we're sorry we don't have one of Mrs. J. L. McPheely who on Tuesday celebrated her ninety-second birthday anniversary—But that isn't the whole story Mrs. McPheely's daughter, Mrs. O. W. Everett also celebrated her mother, Mrs. Everett, and her grandmother.

OUR PHOTOGRAPHER caught the picture of Mrs. Emmerson Ward of Rochester, Minn., just in time, for Mrs. Ward who, with her young son Robert Talbot Ward, has been a guest at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Talbot, leaves today to return to her home.

THE OTHER DAY we mentioned the fact that The Last Man's club would be having its traditional meeting this week-end—On Saturday, to be specific—and that we suspected that the wives of the medicos who compose the club, would be getting together—

It seems that we were right—Mrs. Torrence C. Moyer and Mrs. C. C. Hickman will be hostesses to the members of the Last Man's club auxiliary, and at dinner Saturday evening at the University club the group will include Miss Gladys Hompes, whose brother, Dr. J. J. Hompes is a Last Man's club member—Mrs. Harry Flansburg, Mrs. E. W. Rowe, Mrs. Frederick Webster, Mrs. A. D. Munger, Mrs. George Covey and Mrs. H. Winnett Orr.

SPEAKING OF TRADITIONS and reunions—Understand that a group of Alpha Tau Omegas of the class of 1911, held a reunion last week-end. Every so often roll is called by one of the members, and there is a gathering of the brothers in the bond—This year it coincided with homecoming so several birds were killed with one stone. Anyway, R. O. Reddish of Alliance was in charge of all of the arrangements for last Saturday, and with Mrs. Reddish he joined Mr. and Mrs. Guy Reed, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Noble, Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Weaverling of Kansas City, for breakfast at Hotel

Cornhusker on Saturday morning—and dinner at the University club on Saturday evening—Mr. and Mrs. Reddish, incidentally, remained over until Tuesday, as the guests of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Walt.

THERE IS A FUTURE event or two we must mention this morning—the coffee for a small group of guests on Friday, for instance, for which Mrs. Lyle Holland will be hostess as an informal courtesy to her sister, Mrs. Noble Anderson—

OOPS! MY GOODNESS—forgot a line or two a spell back—

Junior League Officers

Following the November meeting of the Junior League of Lincoln, held Tuesday afternoon at the Hotel Cornhusker, Mrs. James Stuart, president of the Lincoln League; Mrs. Norman Carlson, president of the sustaining group, and Mrs. G. Guy Carkner of Kansas City, Kans., director of region X of the Association of Junior Leagues of America, posed for The Star as they examined several of the beautifully dressed dolls to be presented to the Community Christmas Toy Shop by the sustaining group.

Hiawatha Club

The Y.W.C.A. Hiawatha club will have its regular informal meeting on Friday at 7:30 o'clock at the Y.W.C.A. Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Vaughn, who aided in organization of the club, will be present as sponsors for the meeting.

When we were talking about Mrs. Ward we meant to tell you that Tuesday evening she was the incentive for a family dinner at which Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kimball presided at their home—

HEARD, TOO, that Mrs. Richard Seagren (Georgia Walker) has arrived from Gary, Ind., to spend a week or ten days as the guest of her father, Dr. George Walker.

ROOM'S UP—see you tomorrow.

Garden Lovers

Hear Speaker

Chan Tyrrell spoke on "House Plants" at the Tuesday evening meeting of the Garden Lovers club, held at the Havlock Y.W.C.A. center with John Weiler, president, presiding.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. William M. Dauer and Mrs. R. H. Czapanski.

Ladies Day Out

Members of the Y.W.C.A. Ladies Day Out club will meet for 1:15 o'clock luncheon at Ned's restaurant Thursday. Preschool children of the members may be left at the Y.W.C.A. nursery, where care will be provided for them.

Regional Officer Guest Of Lincoln Junior League

Guest speaker at the monthly meeting of the Junior League of Lincoln, which was held Tuesday afternoon at the Hotel Cornhusker, was Mrs. G. Guy Carhiser of Kansas City, Mo., director of region X of the Association of Junior Leagues of America, who was honored at an informal coffee following the meeting.

Welcomed into league membership and also honored guests at the coffee were the new provisional members, who recently completed a four-weeks training course under the direction of Mrs. Donald Shurtliff, education chairman.

Mrs. James Stuart, president, presided at the meeting and announced that Mrs. George Holyoke, Mrs. David Dow and Mrs. Dwight Perkins will represent the Lincoln league at the two-day annual convention of region X to be held next Monday and Tuesday at Tulsa, Okla.

A discussion was held on the need for a pre-school nursery for children suffering from cerebral palsy and other handicapped conditions, which was conducted by Mrs. Dwight Perkins, chairman of the project finding committee, and reports were given by Mrs. David Dow, Child Guidance clinic, Mrs. Jerry Hunt, Red Cross, Mrs. John Brownlee, in-school radio broadcasts, and Mrs. Richard Joyce, Children's Memorial hospital bazaar.

Mrs. Norman Carlson, president of the sustaining members, presented a report, and the participation of the league in the Crusade for Freedom was discussed by Mrs. Russell Matson. Mrs. Jack Stone, gave a report on the league's annual fall rummage sale.

Serving as hostess chairman for the coffee was Mrs. George X. Smith.

Patriarchs Begin Sixty-First Season

There seems to be a little doubt as to the exact year the Patriarchs was founded—Some say it was around 1890, while others are of the opinion that it was closer to 1888. Regardless of the year of its organization, the Patriarchs remain one of the oldest and most highly respected of Lincoln's social groups.

We were told that when various members of Lincoln's social set back in the nineteenth century planned the Patriarchs, it was a dancing club—Later it developed into a dinner club with evening programs—In recent years the group has played any and all of the current card games—or perhaps attended the theater, with no set rules and regulations to follow. A number of years ago it was voted to bring into the group as members, the adult sons and daughters of members—and so, the Patriarchs really is ageless, and timeless, and probably will continue on for generations to come.

On Tuesday evening the Patriarchs began what is thought to be its sixty-first season when the members dined at the University club. Following dinner a motion picture introduced the theme of "Let's Go Traveling," for the program.

This season's officers include Mrs. B. Frank Watson, president; Mrs. Jack Stewart, vice-president, and Robert J. Ferguson, secretary-treasurer.

BELIES HER YEARS

See how tell-tale lines and wrinkles have smoothed out

Her search for the secret of that fresher, younger look ended when she discovered Endocrine Hormone Cream.

Unlike any ordinary cream, Endocrine actually adds to the sex hormones in the skin when Nature's supply diminishes with advancing years. This brings a regeneration of cells and tissue in aging skin, which no non-hormone cream can possibly do.

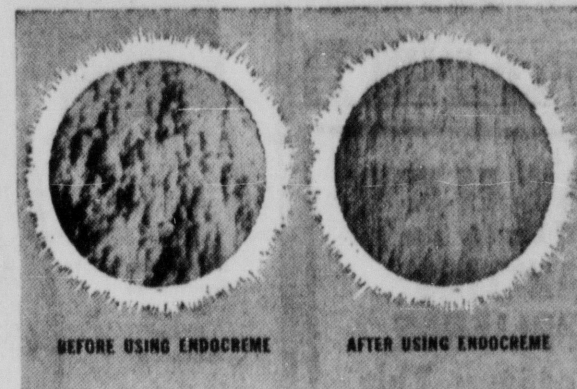

It is as scientifically simple as that. For most women Endocrine smooths out lines and wrinkles, firms up the skin, makes it look more youthful. Thousands have relied on it, ever since 1937.

Endocrine, the first, successful hormone cream, is the only cream that contains Activol, the hormone ingredient that checks ageing skin.

Do start using Endocrine today—see what it does for your skin in only a few weeks. A full month's supply costs only $3.50 plus tax—at the cosmetic counter.

WHAT THE CAMERA SHOWED AFTER 6 SHORT WEEKS

See for yourself what Endocrine did for one woman. These greatly magnified, unretouched photographs show the actual improvement on the same skin surface of the same woman after using Endocrine for a period of 6 weeks.

Three Factors In A Teacher's Success Told

A prominent Nebraska educator Tuesday night described three basic responsibilities of a good grade school teacher which would assist greatly in making young people into better citizens.

Dean F. E. Henzlik of the University of Nebraska teachers college said if grade school teachers fulfilled these responsibilities our youngsters would be properly introduced to a system of living which strives to develop free men and women equipped for responsible and effective living in a democracy.

The responsibilities, Dean Henzlik told the second annual banquet of university students enrolled in elementary education held in the Student Union, are:

(1) Mastery of the subject matter, or three R's, she wishes to teach as well as to know the methods of presenting this information to a well-managed classroom.

(2) A teacher must know and understand her pupils, their needs, their interests, and background, as well as the communities in which they live. Good teachers not only impart information, they stimulate and inspire each pupil to self-discovery and development of their individual talents.

(3) The teacher must maintain herself as a person. Call it personal morale, call it professional pride, call it simply being young and alive—that self-respect and faith in the essential rightness of what she is doing is being important to herself and society. She must also maintain her personality and physical health so she can discharge her duties with vim, vigor and enthusiasm and have the respect of her pupils, her profession and, above all, herself.

New officers of the student Elementary Education club were announced as follows: Miriam Willey, Winnetka, Ill., president, and executive board members, Virginia Nye, Kearney, Patricia Yearsley, Jacksonville, Fla., and Eileen Mullarky, Omaha. Prof. Clara Evans was named faculty sponsor.

Air Reserve Officers' Orders For Exams, Not Extended Service

Current orders to combat crew officers from the Tenth air force are merely for a four-day physical and availability examination, and not for extended active duty. Col. Walter I. Black advised employers and reserve officers Tuesday.

"Do not take any action at this time to close out personal or business matters," he said, "as this examination does not mean you are definitely committed to extended active military service."

A complete set of instructions is accompanying all orders so that air force reservists will know it is not necessary to terminate their employment or take other steps that might be costly, Col. Black said.

Only B-29 pilots, flight engineers, navigators and bombardiers are to undergo these examinations, according to Tenth air force headquarters officials.

Attorney General Rules On Jobless Deductions

The commissioner of labor is not empowered under present statutes to adopt rules and regulations limiting annual increases in the rate of contributions to the unemployment insurance fund to one per cent of payroll with respect to individual employers. Attorney General C. S. Beck held in an opinion given Tuesday to Donald P. Miller, department of labor director.

VFW Posts To Hear Van Zandt

Congressman James E. Van Zandt of Pennsylvania, three times commander-in-chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, will speak to a joint meeting of Lincoln V.F.W. posts 131, 3606 and 8009 at the club headquarters at 227

South Eleventh, Tuesday night, Nov. 13.

Van Zandt, serving his seventh term in congress, is a captain in the U.S. naval reserve and served in both world wars.

He will speak at a public affairs luncheon at the chamber of commerce at noon Tuesday.

H. E. Bechtel Of Grant Heads Sheriffs

Howard E. Bechtel of Grant, Perkins county sheriff, was elected president of the Nebraska Sheriffs and Peace Officers association Tuesday at the annual convention at the Lincoln hotel.

Bechtel replaces Myles Holloway of Malcolm.

Other officers named were:

Peiham McGee, Fremont, first vice president.

Wendall Hills, Rushville, second vice president.

E. G. Ned Marwell, Beatrice, third vice president.

E. H. Stobbe, Grand Island, fourth vice president.

Ralph E. Clements, Hartington, secretary-treasurer.

The association picked Lincoln for the next annual convention to be held in January of 1953. The group will not hold an annual meeting in 1952.

At the morning session, W. C. Fetzner, special agent for the Burlington railroad, spoke on the activities of special railroad police. The railroad police, said Fetzner, are just as important to the railroads as other police are to the state, city and nation.

The 8,000 full time railroad police, he said, constitute the largest organized police force in the country not paid with tax money. The force makes an average of 5,000 arrests a month, and gains about 98 per cent convictions.

The two major railroad problems, he said, are freight theft, which is increasing, and trespassing by juveniles on railroad right-of-way. The latter is the most important problem, he said, as over 200 juveniles were killed last year while trespassing.

The sheriffs were also told of their jobs in civil defense by M. R. Shrader, deputy director of Nebraska civil defense. About 50 per cent of the peace officers, he said, will be county defense directors. The others, he urged, should take an active part in mobile defense organization and assistance.

Dr. Wilkinson Gets Million Dollar Fee

PROVO, Utah — (INS) — Dr. Ernest L. Wilkinson, former Washington, D. C., attorney who will get an estimated one million dollars from the U. S. government, said Tuesday the award "culminates some 17 years of toil, anxiety and prayer."

The 52-year-old president of Brigham Young university at Provo headed the law firm which handled the land claims of the Ute Indians against the government.

Dr. Wilkinson said 70 attorneys worked more than 60,000 hours on the case. He declined to say how the $2,794,606 fee will be divided except that his firm would get a major share.

Treatment And Release Follow Auto Accident

Harry Roth, 68, Route 2, West Lincoln, was taken to St. Elizabeth hospital late Tuesday afternoon and released after treatment for a head bump following an accident several miles northwest of Lincoln on Highway 34. State Trooper Bill Schlotfeldt said Roth, driving northeast, stopped to make a left turn into West Lincoln. A car going in the same direction and driven by Richard Ludden of Surprise, collided with Ludden's car, Schlotfeldt said. Ludden was not hurt.

MAY BE A FAMILY AFFAIR

Fidgeting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often tell-tale signs of Pin-Worms...ugly parasites that medical experts say infect one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, these pests must not only be killed, but killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do...and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

Don't take chances with this dangerous, highly contagious condition. At the first sign of Pin-Worms, ask your druggist for genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge...the small, easy-to-take tablets perfected by famous Dr. D. Jayne & Son, specialists in worm remedies for over 100 years.
